themselves with a brief overview of their project role. Senada Kalabušić presented the project, its overall goals as well as realized and planned activities. The NEO representatives approved of what they were presented and asked some additional questions in order to clarify certain issues related to project implementation. They also provided participants with some useful information and advice especially with regards to tender procedure. It was also pointed out that lessons learned should be passed on to other partners implementing Erasmus + projects in BiH.

Representatives of the University of East Sarajevo as well as the representatives of the University of Sarajevo discussed the progress of the implementation of project activities and outlined how important it is to have timely information on deadlines especially with regards to numerous work packages and activities. The University of Sarajevo presented the connection of some Re@WBC project activities with the project TRAIN which represents a set of modules aimed for assistant professors, senior assistants and assistants.

The NEO representatives commented that it seems that the project team is very experienced and committed to a successful project implementation. It is also very important that the management of the universities is willing to support the project implementation.
